• The European Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct constitute a set of general principles and requirements specifying the role, responsibilities and rights of researchers and of organisations that recruit and/or fund researchers.

• The Charter aims to ensure that the nature of the relationship between researchers and employers or funders fosters the production, transfer, sharing and dissemination of knowledge and technological development and is conducive to the professional development of researchers.

• The ‘HR Strategy for Researchers’ is an initiative from the European Commission to implement the rules and principles of the European Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers.
The European Commission recognizes with the "HR Excellence in Research Award" institutions that make progress in aligning their human resources policies with the 40 principles of the Charter & Code, based on a personalized action plan/strategy for human resources.
